Matt:

Thanks for the update. If UCS could reimburse you for travel, would that make a difference?

Shaun

You are correct and I was thinking the same thing. We are under some pretty significant budget constraints that are severely impacting my ability to get approval for nonessential travel so I am unfortunately unable to commit to the Harvard event at this time. This is especially the case in light of the NYAGO event which I am being asked to attend. I suggest seeing what you hear about the NYAGO event and then determine next steps about scheduling. The approach may be to organize an agenda that compliments whatever comes out of the event in NY. All these issues are incredibly important and working together to formulate an approach seems like to most effective way to achieve something. I hope this is helpful.

Thank you

Matt
