It looks good to me aside from a few typos that I think are just maybe what I'm seeing on my phone as a result of tracked changes.

This is mostly based on what New York already had input on so I would send it to them for their feedback but I'm also just going to start sending it to others for theirs as well. And yes I think it should be represented to all as provisional.

Lastly, the governor is hosting the prime minister of Fiji for a luncheon next week on the 13th and he wants to invite all the USCA governors. I think it's a quick turnaround but would be a good opportunity for an in person follow up to hash out details including at principal and senior advisor level. We'll need to do a ton of prep work this week to make that an effective meeting but I think we should give it a shot.

Lastly, you saw my other note about UNF helping with the website. They are also willing to hire Kim Carnahan, who has been a climate negotiator with state department and is a total powerhouse, to help organize us. I'd like to move on that too but want to get your thoughts before telling New York.

Sorry I took so long - see my thoughts attached

Once we're all on a page, and again on one with NY, we should think about how we roll this out to the others. Meaning, to what extent are we going to give it to all the others for feedback, versus tell them, as co-chairs, (especially to those who have already joined) that it's the terms of their membership.

Sorry me too. Here is a cut attached. I added some "principles" in addition to the commitments. I also added a stab at a CPP bullet. Let me know what you think.

Sorry got waylaid....

See what you think – very brief. But hopefully meaningful. I think we need to:

- Not scare the Rs with excessive performance commitments
- Offer something concrete enough to make it more than a paper tiger
- Provide broad areas of focus that can be filled out by our partners

I didn't mention CPP. I hadn't heard that before this AM. I'm not sure I see how it makes sense since the tools aren't there and it seems odd to reference one sector (power) and a reg that won't likely be available to us. I'm open to hearing pushback but....
