Hi there,

Definitely feeling better, especially with the election results of last night. What a relief.

I'm in D.C. for the ELI board meeting so haven't had a chance to follow up on Alex's email but I think I'm interested. What do you think?

On the Union of Concerned Scientists, count me in. Looks like we need a woman panelist?

Did I not send you my comments/edits on the Pritzker brief? Reattaching here --maybe I thought I sent but didn't. For reasons I can't discern, UCOP still hasn't released the report. Guessing it's because of the UC audit controversy but I'm not sure. Can't release our brief until they release the report and I've asked twice about its status so think I'll lay off for a bit longer.

Let's set up a time to talk with Ted, you and Sean. But you should know that Dan told Jennifer he wants to meet with you and me and didn't include the others. So we should figure out how to handle that. We can finesse Ted since he's out of town but Sean is trickier. Thoughts?

How are you feeling? Totally recovered? Hope so! And I'm sure last night's senate race outcome helped buoy the spirits.

Some questions for you when you get a minute, most pressing at the top:

1-the Union of Concerned Scientists and we are planning a joint event for the evening of Thursday Jan 25, on the science and liability of holding fossil fuel companies liable for climate damages. (This was a suggestion of Ted's and we have been following up, and it's coming together really nicely.) Event will be 6pm-8pm or so at the Fowler. We are inviting a keynote speaker; not sure if we will get one—invitations are out to Becerra and to Garcetti, and we may ask Ted Lieu next. Then Peter Frumhoff of UCS will give a 15-minute overview of the science of attributing particular harms to particular companies. We'd then like someone from UCLA to give a parallel 15-minute talk about the basics of the law behind of these liability suits. Would you like to do that? I know you have been working with the group strategizing around some of these cases.

Those two opening talks will be followed by a conversation among a diverse set of people onstage, including Peter; whoever the law person is; Alex Hall; Serge Dedina, mayor of Imperial Beach; and probably one or two others TBD to bring different (but generally supportive) perspectives. Then Ken Kimmell of UCS will wrap up the evening with thoughts.

What do you say?

2-did you see Alex Jackson's email about the emissions market advisory group appointment? Just flagging it for you.

3-the UC carbon neutrality Pritzker brief is still in your court for comments/approval. (Let me know if something has gone horribly wrong with it and you haven't had time to figure out how to tell me yet!)

4-let's figure out a process for next steps on the Dan ask. Should you, Sean, Ted and I talk by phone? Happy to set that up.

Thanks...
