Hi Dan,

Hope all is well. I'm just back from a crazy couple of weeks traveling for work and finally settling into the summer.

I'm writing because folks from the Center for Climate Integrity, including Rick Reed (who I think is technically with the Rockefeller Family Fund) have said they've been in touch with you and are coming to LA and would love to meet with you. I just thought I'd let you know that I've been following their work, largely through an event I participated in in Honolulu about nuisance litigation against the oil industry, and think really highly of what they're doing. They helped organize the event and their chief lawyer, Alyssa Johl, spoke at it. What was most impressive to me about what they're doing is that they're focused on sophisticated communications efforts to make the public and public officials aware of the oil industry's campaign to deceive the public about climate change. The communications strategies are designed to support the litigation efforts and I was struck by their sophistication and persuasiveness.

If you're interested in more information or if you'd like to meet with them and want me to come along I'd be happy to. Apparently they're suggesting July 15 or 16? And if not, that's all good too! Just offering to help if you'd find it of assistance.

Give my best to Rae!

Welcome home.

I am aware of the group and Reed. I have not been an active supporter. If you think their work is great and that we can or should be working with them let me know. I am glad to meet with them and you when they are out here if you think appropriate.

I think it would be interesting to meet with them if you are game. I'm impressed with what they're trying to accomplish, which is to improve climate communication. Not a particularly easy thing to do but they seem sophisticated, though I admit that I've only seen a little bit of their work product. They have put together a very interesting cachet of documents from the oil companies about what they knew about climate change, when they knew it, and how they've engaged in their denialist campaign.

I'm happy to come to a meeting if you would like to go forward with meeting them, though I obviously leave that up to you. Let me know what you think.

I think he's planning to be here and can meet and I'm sure would come your way. I've been working with them a bit -- we participated in a conference in Hawaii to try to encourage Hawaii to consider a nuisance lawsuit. I've also discussed them with Vic Sher and he thinks they're an important part of the broader effort on the lawsuits to engage the public. I think our involvement will continue. And as you may remember the clinic has been working on the nuisance cases.

Do you want me to communicate with them to try to set up a meeting?

Hi Jordan,

Welcome back! I hope you had a great trip. We'd love to talk to you more about the possibility of hosting a 10th anniversary Emmett celebration. We could talk by phone tomorrow or Friday but it also turns out that I will be in your offices on Monday for a meeting with Dan and people from the Center for Climate Integrity. I could come early or stay a bit late if that would work better. We're also, of course, happy to talk by phone. Whatever works best for you. Thanks!

Best,

Ann

Hi Dan,

Thanks again for meeting with the CCI/Rockefeller folks on Monday. I'm glad I got to see their presentation and am thinking about ways the Emmett Institute might collaborate with them.

Hi Daniel,

I've been working with the Center for Climate Integrity to get an op ed placed about the nuisance litigation. I've attached it here. Would you work to try to get it accepted, starting with the NY Times and Wash Post (in whatever order you prefer)? Once they reject us :). let's talk about where to try next.

Thanks!
